

SWEET
DROPS
DESIGN
CHARLOTTE
LYNGGAARD

“Sweet droplets in the seas, on the branches, and on the skin. Droplets of love, of sensuality, and of fun. A droplet can bob, dangle, dance, swing, and twinkle its way into your heart”

An exquisite jewellery range worn by Crown Princess Mary and members of the Royal Danish Court, Ole Lynggaard Copenhagen is now selling at Coff's Harbour's premier Jewellery store, Kennedy Jewellers at The Promenade on Harbour Drive.

The Sweet Drops concept was launched last year and immediately became an absolute “must have” for trendy and stylish Scandinavians, captivating the interest of celebrities and royalty. Ole Lynggaard Copenhagen is the leading jewellery house in Scandinavia.

Sweet Drops is a luxurious bracelet handmade in Denmark from exclusive calf skin, with beautifully crafted, removable and changeable Sweet Drops charms. The leather bracelet is made in Denmark with expert craftsmanship using traditional tanning, dying and sewing techniques. Hours of manual work go into each piece in order to acquire the desired result.

Each Sweet Drop charm is beautifully crafted in order to bring out the vibrant colour and form of each gemstone, handpicked by designer Charlotte Lynggaard. There are more than 70 different Sweet Drops combination from, from extravagant charms paved with a rose, amethyst of smoky quartz stone, or the more modern look in black, silver, white gold or natural black onyx. The Sweet Drops leather bracelet can be found in many colours.

Charlotte's design philosophy is that jewellery should be worn on both formal and informal occasions. By using the same jewellery clasp on a cotton cord, and then converting it onto an exclusive pearl necklace, it can be worn both in everyday life, as well as on a glamorous night out. Charlotte believes in giving the wearer the possibility to mix and match the jewellery with different pendants, chains, necklaces or add-ons, enabling many wearable variations of the pieces.

Jewellery design house Ole Lynggaard Copenhagen is a family business, established in 1963 by goldsmith Ole Lynggaard. After studying and working in Germany, Paris, New York, San Francisco and Japan, Ole returned to Denmark and bought a small workshop. Ole is Charlotte's father and she joined his company in 1992. Her brother has managed the company since 2003 and her husband became a commercial director in 2006.

The family-run design house has a solid and well-established reputation as a luxury brand around the world. Ole Lynggaard Copenhagen is the leading fine jewellery house in Northern Europe and in 2008 was appointed as Purveyor to the Royal Danish Court. The company has a long and distinguished history of serving royalty, stars and celebrities worldwide.

For more information about Charlotte's latest range, the Sweet Drops bracelets, drop into Kennedy Jewellers at The Promenade on Harbour drive, Coff's Harbour, phone 02 6650 9940.

Charlotte expresses a wealth of sensations and experiences in her jewellery designs. Contrast, colours and choice of materials are constantly challenged and new creative avenues explored. For her, jewellery must be compelling. It must be eloquent and evocative. This is the spirit Charlotte intuitively seeks to instil in her striking designs, bringing an elegant edge to her distinctive feminine expression.

KENNEDY
Jewellers